

Early Completers Program

Family Questions

How does the funding work in the Early Completers Program? A student will apply for funding through the Advanced Opportunities web-based portal, either individually or with a school counselor, depending on the preference of the school district. The program covers tuition for courses but does not cover associated course fees (activity fees, lab fees, etc.).

How do I determine eligibility for the program? Students who have satisfied all of the state high school graduation requirements, with the exception of the senior math and senior project requirements, but have not yet graduated may qualify for the Early Completers program. Students who are enrolled in a school district that have higher high school graduation requirements than the state will still be eligible for participation in the program if those additional requirements have not been completed prior to the final year of school.

Can I take classes on a college campus? Yes, credit taken by high school students on a college campus can be paid for through this program. However, many post-secondary institutions will charge full rate of tuition. Early Completers will pay for a maximum of $75 for each credit. It is a good idea to make your school counselor/administrator aware of your participation in a college course. They may have district procedures in place to ensure credits are transcribed appropriately.
